Citizens Urged To Attend Meeting

Next Wednesday night — at 8 p.m. in the City Hall — the City Council will hold its final hearing on the long-disputed Edgemere Cottages motel expansion request.

Brought before the City Council by 39 Carmel residents who filed an appeal against the granting of the Edgemere request, the hearing is likely to lead to a final Council decision in the Edgemere matter, which began months ago when Edgemere asked for a permit to add 290 square feet of building coverage to two motel units while remodeling them.

Determined opposition to the Edgemere request has been expressed again and again, by the Carmel Citizens' Committee, because that group considers that the granting of the permit would violate the spirit and intent of the "freeze" ordinance of last spring, which was supposed to stop motel expansion.

All interested citizens of Carmel are urged to attend the council hearing and express their opinions, pro and con, on the matter of motel expansion.

New Luciano Shop To Open Friday

Luciano Tempo and Traylor Dunwoody will be opening their third shop on the Monterey Peninsula at San Carlos and 5th Ave., in Carmel, on Friday, Jan. 30.

The shop will display antiques and objects of art personally collected throughout Europe last fall during their three month buying trip.

Three thousand square feet of specially designed display space will be given over to these rare European finds which date from the 15th to the 18th century.

Extensive shipments of furniture, small objects and accessories and works of art from England, Portugal and Spain will be presented at the opening with shipments from Italy due within one month.

A portion of these shipments will also be shown at their other two locations: Luciano Antiques, Lincoln and 7th, Carmel, and Luciano Kitchen Traditions in the Del Monte Shopping Center

City Cultural Commission Gets Preliminary Plan for Sunset

Main item on Monday night's Cultural Commission agenda turned out to be nearly the last one.

That was the presentation of a new master-plan concept for the long-range development of the Sunset Center as a combination cultural-city-hall-and-children's library complex.

Commissioner James Pruitt, who presented the master-plan concept as chairman of an ad hoc committee, prefaced his remarks with the statement that it was a "preliminary" one, as was also prominently indicated on the blueprint he used to give point to his presentation.

Members of Pruitt's ad hoc committee are Commissioners Patricia Faul and Dr. James Gilman. The committee still has under study the detailed Sunset report prepared by City Planning Director John Riling under the direction of Mayor Barney Laiolo.

More specific than previous Sunset planning proposals, the Pruitt concept would not only re-arrange and alter present rooms at Sunset, but would also add five new rooms at the north end of the existing main structure. As suggested in the Riljng report, the Pruitt proposal would place city-hall offices in the area now occupied by the Sunset gymnasium.

At the south end of the site, a children's library is proposed.

The library proposal for Sunset was to be the subject of a special joint city council-library board meeting cil library board meeting scheduled for last night, according to an announcement made by City Administrator Hugh Bayless, at the Cultural Commission session.

Parking was proposed for the locations where such parking has been permitted before, including the north playground which has had a dual use in recent years, though the city's adopted master plan states that its intended use is the playground one.

In addition to the identification of various indisputably cultural uses, the Pruitt plan includes a possible restaurant, as did the Riling report. The restaurant proposal is one which, in the past, has

. . . The Catastrophe

The rains came—for days on end—and the river rose and became a torrent, uprooting trees, smashing debris against the bridges and raging into the ocean.

For 500 yards the muddy brown current poured into the blue ocean, turning it an ugly color 300 to 400 yards offshore and for several miles along the beach.

With the raging river came the debris from the valley—the driftwood, the lumber from smashed houses and the other flotsam of the flood—and it washed onto the Carmel beaches for several miles, piling four feet high in places, and washing 40 and 50-foot-long tree boles, stripped of limbs and leaves, onto seaweed covered rocks, making a stark contrast in texture, color and incongruity.

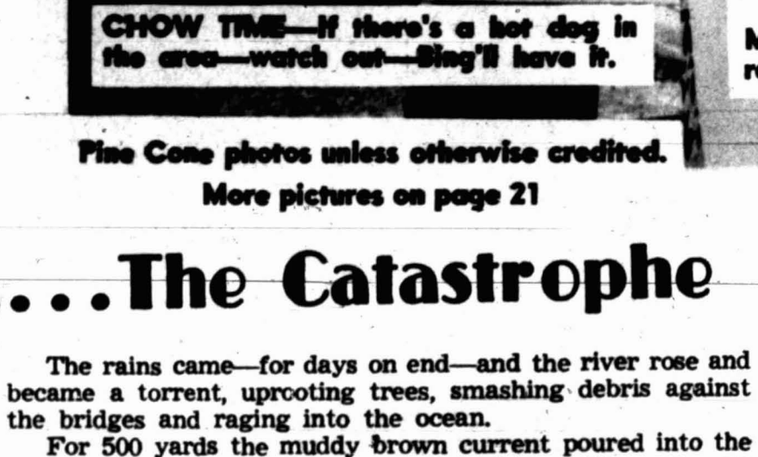
However, the mile upon mile of driftwood on the beaches may prove to be a boon to Carmelites.

According to William Askew, Commissioner of Public Works for the city, no effort will be made to clean up the debris for a couple of weeks—or until residents have gleaned all the burnable wood from the beach.

"Since the wood is salt-impregnated from having been in the ocean, when dry it burns with brilliantly colored flame, so anyone who wants to add to the beauty of their fireplace can pick up all the wood they want," Askew said.

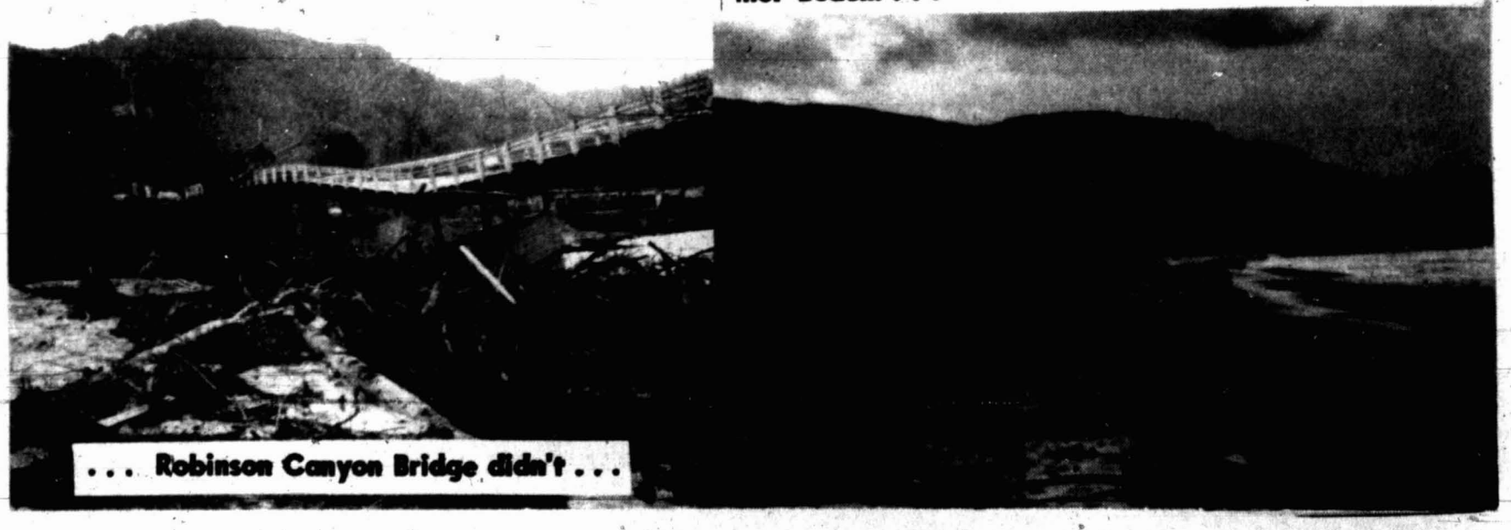
"After a couple of weeks, we'll get trucks in there and clean up what's left."

So the Catastrophe and the Clambake came together, which is not only fitting, but to be expected.



. . . the Highway 1 Bridge held. . . .

. . . driftwood, as far as the eye can see on the Carmel Beach. . . .



. . . Robinson Canyon Bridge didn't . . .

PG Considers Second Reading Of Disputed Liquor Ordinance

By Gunnar Norberg

Few cities anywhere in the country have easily identifiable characteristics which make them strikingly different from all the others.

The few that do generally make some kind of effort to retain those special characteristics for which they have become widely known. Sometimes, to be sure, the effort is only intermittent and haphazard.

Usually no effort is made to abandon, abolish, or exterminate a city's special and distinctive characteristics, if in any way be considered laudable.

This brings to mind today's Pacific Grove situation. As this was written, the final step in the termination of Pacific Grove's status as the only remaining "dry" city in California, was about to be taken, since a key city ordinance in Pacific Grove was awaiting second-reading and adoption.

Pacific Grove started out back in 1875 as a "dry" city, long before there was any Volstead Act or national prohibition, and it has continued in that status for close to a hundred years.

Because Carmel, though for other reasons than Pacific Grove's, has made a special niche for itself among the towns of America and of the world, long-time Carmel residents can feel a sympathetic ache for the painful sense of loss which many Pacific Grove citizens are experiencing today.

The continuance of the special "dry" status of Pacific Grove has had little to do with whether or not any particular Pacific Grove resident liked, disliked, or abstained from the use of alcoholic beverages. But it does have to do with the maintenance of a long-established city-wide moral tone in a day when steadfast adherence to any such tone anywhere has too often and too readily fallen into decay.

This ethical posture has given Pacific Grove a high place among the cities of the state and of the country, as well as a special distinction of its own.

Then last November, a so-called "advisory question" was placed on the general-election ballot, asking voters to say if they would or would not, advise the City Council to keep Pacific Grove "dry." The vote was about 3-to-2 to end the city's "dry" status.

Even then, about as many people voted "no" as had voted altogether in Pacific Grove's last municipal election.

And what, you ask, might that prove?

Simply that a lot more people vote in a general election than in a city election.

As a matter of fact, some 46% of the Pacific Grove electorate voted in the 1967 municipal election, while 80% voted in last November's general election.

While it is sometimes deplored that substantially smaller proportions of a city electorate vote in the usual municipal elction, and while there are sometimes seemingly valid grounds for such concern, it is probably equally true that the smaller percentage of city-election voters is the particular portion most interested, most informed and most aware of the immediately local matters which are to be resolved at the ballot box.

National and state-wide issues, widely publicized, along with the widely known personalities who espouse them, bring large numbers of voters to the polls at general-election time, many of whom have little knowledge of, or little interest in local election matters. Being in the voting booth, however, they often mark the whole ballot instead of simply the top of it — and thus, as in Pacific Grove last November, they can, often quite casually, set a city on a surprising new course.

Some of the November voters may also have had only brief residence in Pacific Grove, since substantial numbers of service-connected families move in and out of all Peninsula communities, and such voters might lack a profound knowledge of the meaning and character of Pacific Grove.

After all, only 90 days' residence in the county, and 54 days in the precinct, fulfill the residence qualification for voting anywhere in California.

It is, of course, entirely possible that the qualification for voting on strictly city matters — particularly of a kind which could lead to a change in a city's entire character — should be much longer than either 54 or 90 days, but the state election code gives cities no right to apply any such extra voting

HEART BUSINESS DRIVE — Local chairman for the 1969 Central Mission Trails Heart Association business campaign go over materials volunteers will use in seeking support of business and professional men for the Association's multi-faceted attack on heart disease. The campaign opens Feb. 2. From left: Jim Stewart of Carmel and Larry Nelson of Seaside.

Heart Association Begins '69 Drive

Area Chairman and district captains are marshalling a host of volunteer workers for the Feb. 2, kick-off of the 1969 Central Mission Trails Heart Association business fund drive, according to Jim Stewart, Carmel City Chairman.

Volunteers will be fanning out through Carmel's business districts seeking contributions from merchants and professional men to support the fight against the nation's Number 1 killer — heart disease.

Contributions provide a locally directed program of research, education and community service in the Tri-County area — and help support a united, national drive to develop new techniques of treatment and prevention.

Stewart noted that Heart Association activities have paid major dividends in the past 18 years during which the death rate for persons 45-64 from all cardio-vascular disease has declined 16½ per cent.

The most encouraging news on the heart front during the same 18-year period (which marks the Heart Association's lifetime) has been a 59 per cent drop in death rates attributable to hypertension and hypertensive heart disease.

NAMES COMMITTEE — Mrs. Mary A. Barter, of Karen's Kreations and Kapers and new president of the Carmel Business Association, last week named the executive committee that will assist her for the coming year.

Mary Barter Names CPA Members To New Executive Committee

Mrs. Mary R. Barter, new president of the Carmel Business Association, last week named the members of the association's Executive Committee.

Two members of the executive committee represent the Carmel Business Association at each of the Carmel City Council meetings, and these representatives rotate in such a manner that each member of the executive committee serves twice a year in this capacity.

Mrs. Barter's appointments include:

Bud Allen and Ashton Stanley, co-chairmen of the Program and Housing Committee; Henri Corbot and Gordon Robertson, co-chairmen of the Retailer's Committee; James Peter Cost, vice-president of the CBA, and Don Nelson, treasurer, named to the Finance Committee with Nelson as chairman; Stan Ewig and Caroline Vogel, co-chairmen of the Membership Committee, and Russ Harris and Leo Tanous were appointed to do special committee work. Tanous was also named CBA representative to the Cultural Commission.

In her position as president of CBA, Mrs. Barter automatically becomes an ex-officio member of each of the committees, and executive secretary Kaye Scott is the coordinator for all committees.

Charles McEwen, president ex-officio of the Carmel business group, was named Nominating Chairman.

Valley Horse Show Called Off

The Sleepy Hollow Farm Horse Show planned for next Sunday has had to be called off because of damage by the storm to the bridge behind the Farm Center.

The show has been postponed until Mar. 2 when hopefully the damage will be repaired.

Sleepy Hollow Farm, reorganized from the former Point Lobos Ranch stables, recently moved to its new location on Robinson Canyon, where they have two polo fields.

Several Attend Inaugural

Several from the Carmel area were able to attend the inauguration of President Nixon, and the festivities attending it, among them the Monte Harringtons of Carmel Highlands.

Others were the Don Westers of Carmel Valley, the George Carlsons of Pebble Beach and the Harvey Hancocks of Carmel who had just returned from a month in Hawaii.

Ralph Atkinson Files for Reelection To the MPC Board of Trustees

Ralph Atkinson filed this week for reelection to one of the two vacancies on the Monterey Peninsula College Board of Trustees.

Ralph Atkinson was born in Massachusetts, educated at Phillips Academy, Andover, at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and did graduate work at Cal Tech. He is a licensed chemical engineer.

He retired from business in Los Angeles and moved to the Monterey Peninsula ten years ago, when he built his home at Bixby Landing, where he lives with his wife, Dorothy. They have three grown sons.

He was elected to the MPC Board of Trustees in April, 1965, and was elected chairman of the Board last July. He has also been active in a number of community affairs, serving on the board of the Coast Property Owners Association, the Advisory Committee to the Planning Commission, and the Management Council of the Monterey Peninsula.

Three More Join Carmel School Race

Andrea Gill of Carmel and Reginald Dewar of Big Sur have joined the Rev. James Brock of Carmel Valley in filing for the Apr. 15 election for Carmel Unified District School Board.

James I. Miller of Carmel has announced his intention of taking out papers before the Feb. 20 deadline in the County Office of Education in Salinas.

Brock was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of Dr. Robert Newton last year. He has been connected with St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church in the Valley for seven years.

Brock who lives on Robinson Canyon Road, has four children; one at Carmelo, two at Middle School, and one the high school.

Miller is a business man, being owner manager of Miller Rugmasters and Miller Moving and Storage in Monterey.

He is married to Barbara S. Miller and has three daughters, Karen and Kristina who attend Carmel River School, and four-year old Sharon.

MPC Students Will Register at Armory

Registration for day or evening courses at Monterey Peninsula College on Thursday and Friday of this week will not take place in the MPC gymnasium as previously announced, Mrs. Ruth Menmuir, director of registration, said today.

All registration activities will be conducted, instead, at the National Guard Armory on campus.

Fulltime day students will report according to previously made appointments. Evening students must register between the hours of 6:30 and 9 p.m.

Quota for Saturday Job Classes Filled at Carmel High School

Twenty eight boys and girls, the quota for Carmel High School, will start Saturday training classes Feb. 1, under the Peninsula Regional Occupational Program (PROP), reported Supt. Dr. Harris A. Taylor to the Carmel District School Board Jan. 22.

"There has been tremendous interest shown," said high school principal Arthur Gumbrell. "We have more alternates than all the rest of the schools."

Unused billets will be reassigned, said Taylor, in the classes which prepare students for jobs as nurse's aides or orderlies, auto and light vehicle maintenance workers, and in retail sales.

Three hour classes last 20 weeks, and will be given at Monterey High or at its maintenance yard.

Vocational-technical aptitude tests given by the State Department of Employment started Jan. 22, to match with job requirements and job opportunities.

Financed by the 2c tax which netted $35,000 last year, and ADA monies, PROP is also planning a shorter after school or during school course to prepare boys for jobs as service station attendants, new and used car salesmen, small engine maintenance workers, and stock boys.

They are also planning to allot $1000 to each high school to design its own program. In the dream stage now, Supt. Taylor envisions a graphics and photography center.

It would cost, he estimated, about $15,000 to set up a printing department in which they could do printing for the District and give students experience.

A full time teacher might make it possible to offer instruction to other schools and help make up our costs.

"Twelve more girls would like to take nursing," said Thomas Wood, vocational and work experience counsellor, to the Pine Cone reporter. "Seven more boys and girls would like to take the retail selling course. Strangely enough, no boys signed up for orderly work although it pays better than the nursing."

Holman's and Macy's will cooperate in the selling course, he said, and the local hospitals and clinics with the nursing.

Forty five Carmel High School students are attending Monterey Peninsula College, he said. Most of them are studying data processing.

School Board Hears Primary Wing Plans

The new kindergarten and primary addition to Tularcitos School in Carmel Valley is moving along towards completion, District School Superintendent Harris A. Taylor said at the last meeting of the school board.

Taylor is writing a description of the school and the process of designing an exemplary nursery school. It will be based on best fulfilling needs for physical development, social experience and intellectual development most appropriate to the locality in which it will be built, he said.

Taylor has designed dual purpose floor desks such as they have in Samoa, sturdy enough to be used in the large block set, but light enough and built so that children can stack them out of the way.

He described the 1200 square foot area where there will be small animal cages, goldfish and the gardening area. The landscape architect, he said, is excited about the possibility of a nature trail like the one at Captain Cooper School, and the possibility of getting a federal conservation grant to finance it.

Audit and Insurance

The 1967-68 audit by Heckenlaible, Apger Co., was accepted. Board member Clayton Neill wondered why duplicate records based on ours were kept at the county level, whether it was not a waste of tax money.

"Since building costs have gone up from $8 to $20 per square foot," Neill also wondered whether our insurance was adequate.

Bids for district insurance were authorized business manager Walter E. Hinton who said that rates may double.

He was also authorized to advertise bids for supplies.

Holiday for Day School

Boys and girls at All Saints' Day School will have a holiday this week, from noon on Thursday, Jan. 30, through Friday, Jan. 31, while their teachers attend the Episcopal Schools Institute being held at St. Matthew's Church, San Mateo.

The Rt. Rev. Kilmer Meyers, Bishop of California, will speak informally on Thursday evening. The opening address will be given by John Holt, author of two current best sellers on education: How Children Learn and How Children Fail.

Sales Classes Begin Feb. 3

Twelve week classes of instruction for the occupation of salesperson are scheduled to begin on Monday, Feb. 3, at Monterey Peninsula College in Monterey.

The training is authorized by the Federal Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962, and is structured to combine classroom and actual on-the-job instruction at no cost to the trains.

To qualify for training, applicants must meet the selection criteria provided by the Manpower Development Act, and must be unemployed or underemployed.

Selection of trainees will be made by the Monterey local office of the California State Employment Service.

Persons interested in the training should apply at the State Employment Service Office, 480 Webster Street, Monterey, Monday through Friday, 8 to 12 Noon and 1 to 4:30 p.m. at Window 9.

Dr. Neil Sullivan Addresses AAUW

"Property values in Berkeley have not fallen as predicted when we started to integrate the schools," said Dr. Neil Sullivan at the recent joint dinner meeting of Monterey Peninsula and Salinas chapters of the American Association of University Women.

The Berkeley schools superintendent who is going to Massachusetts to run their school system, said "Berkeley hasn't become a black city. The exodus of whites has reversed.

"They said taxpayers won't pay the price, but today Berkeley has the highest tax rate in California, and we also have the finest schools."

They said the neighborhood concept of schools, as opposed to bussing students to desegragate, was sacrosanct, but Sullivan contended that theory is not sound.

"Teachers must make up their minds that ALL children must learn," he said.

NICANOR ZABALETA, FAMED HARPIST — Will join the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra conducted by Haymo Taeuber in its concert at Sunset Theater, Feb. 1.

Noted Harpist To Be Featured By Monterey County Symphony Orchestra

A musician who has been called "King of the Harps," and who has had half a hundred modern symphonic compositions written especially for him and his instrument, has been signed to appear as featured guest soloist for the third concert of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra season.

The harpist is Nicanor Zabaleta, of whom the famed Maurice Ravel once said, "In Zabaleta the artist is as great or even greater than the harpist."

In announcing the appearance of Senor Zabaleta, Monterey County Symphony conductor Haymo Taeuber claimed the program "will permit everyone, perhaps for the first time in their lives; to see exactly what can be done with the harp."

Zabaleta will be featured as soloist in Handel's "Concerto for Harp and Strings" and in Joaquin Rodrigo's "Concerto Serenata for Harp and Orchestra".

The Spanish harpist comes to Carmel following a successful season that encompassed most of the major cities of the world. Last year he performed in 77 different concert dates. He had appeared in practically every important international music festival.

Date of this third concert is Tuesday evening, Feb. 4. The program gets underway at 8:30 p.m. with a performance of Gluck's "Iphigenia in Aulis" Overture. The Handel concerto will be followed by Mozart's "Symphony No. 38 in D Major", sometimes called the "Prague Symphony". The Rodrigo piece and Brahms' "Variations on a Theme by J. Haydn" will round out the second half of the program.

Two Symphony Preview Teas Here

Two symphony preview teas were given by the Monterey County. Symphony Guild on the Peninsula recently so that Haymo Taeuber, conductor of the orchestra, might acquaint listeners with what they would hear on the program next Tuesday evening, Feb. 4.

One was held at Stilwell Hall at Fort Ord for more than 300 guests; the other at Del Mesa, Carmel.

Commenting on the relationship of music to the age in which it was composed, Mr. Taeuber observed that right now we are starting a new age, as signaled by our moon orbiters, which will produce a new music, too. But the accomplishments of today, he said, in music as well as in science, are possible only as they build on accomplishments of the past and are a part of them.

A talented husband and wife team of violinists, Carol and Noel Felde, accompanied by Fred Schaad, all members of the orchestra, played pieces by Mozart, Bach, Schubert.

Mrs. Cecil H. Barker, president of the Monterey County Symphony Guild, introduced ranking military ladies present at the Stillwell Hall tea: Mrs. Thomas A. Kenan, wife of Fort Ord's commanding general; Mrs. Robert McNitt, wife of the commandant of the Naval Postgraduate School; and Mrs. Kibbey Horne, wife of the commandant of the Defense Language Institute.

Musical Comments

Devoted Listeners Brave Storm To Hear The Crown Chamber Players

Umbrellas and raincoats dripping, the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society filled nearly every seat at the Carmel Museum of Art last Friday.

It was a tribute to the second appearance in Carmel of The Crown Chamber Players, composed of Dr. William Van Den Burg, Dutch cellist, who is now making his home in Carmel, Rosario Mazzeo, former clarinettist with the Boston Symphony, who lives in Carmel Highlands, and William Corbett Jones, pianist.

All three are Crown College faculty members at the University of California at Santa Cruz.

The all Brahms program began with three Intermezzi arranged for them by Van Den Berg. The last of these was a particularly graceful and happy work.

They were followed by the Sonata in F minor for clarinet and piano in which the sensitive flexibility and rich passionate tones of the piano were interwoven with the charming phrases of the cooler sounding woodwind. One was conscious of the interesting rhythms for which Brahm is well known.

Climax of the concert was realized in the Sonata in F major, Opus 99, for cello and piano. The low throbbing sounds of the cello which Van Den Burg achieved with his bowing, rather than the usual string vibrato, was thrilling to listen to. His vibrato pizzicatos and soulful tones were only a part of the tremendous virtuosity of this man's playing.

We are very fortunate indeed to have William Van Der Berg occupying first cello chair in the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra which will be heard next week.

The evening ended with the Trio in A minor, Opus 114, in which the Allegro theme was stated by the cello, followed by the piano, and then was embellished by impeccable runs on the clarinet. An ingratiating Adagio in the three-quarter time so typical of Brahms followed. His graceful arpeggios underlay the warmth and feeling of the Andantino grazioso and the number ended with a lively Allegro.

The audience, happy and satisfied after its nice full meal of Brahms, again prepared to face the rainstorm.

George Duke Classic Jazz Trio Brings Audience to Feet at MPC

Another in the series of progressive jazz concerts headed by artist composers who have appeared at the Monterey Jazz Festival was given recently at Monterey Peninsula College.

Introduced by Dan Haerle of the music department, himself a pianist and composer whose jazz trio performed triumphantly here, the George Duke Trio follows such notables as the Denny Zeitlin Trio earlier in the season.

Young George Duke, only 22, teaches music at Merritt Junior College in Oakland. His nimble fingers performed at the piano in "End of a Love Affair" in his arrangement of the Miles Davis piece.

It was fascinating to watch the long fingers of the much older, bearded Jimmy Hird, who has been famous for years for his technical skill on the bass viol, as well as the off-beat cadenzas or flights into the where, which no matter how long he extends them, somehow seem to get back into the rhythmic harmonic groove on pitch.

"Maria" from Leonard Berstein's "West Side Story," arranged by George Duke, started softly, with special effects from the spider fingers of Jimmy Hird. From side view his fingers blurred the way a drumstick does in action.

"Look of Love" ended the first half.

A piece called "I Believe Little Sunflower Seed," by Craig Hunter followed intermission. Duke introduced a shimmering effect on the piano by flattening his hand on the keys. There was considerable body English by both men.

Duke's virtuosity at the piano was displayed in the impossible "One Finger Snap" by Herb Hancock in which he was supported by the low drums.

Duke's own "Soul Watcher Blues" kicked up a storm of special effects on the piano, against distant and steady drum beats.

A sing-along "Black Orpheus" which included a long break by Jimmy Hird on the bass, concluded the program but the audience of young and old jazz buffs sprang to its feet and demanded in no uncertain terms an encore.

Duke thought a moment and complied with "One for a Big Cool."

Lute and Guitar Recital

Another recital at MPC packed them in this month, that of Joseph Bacon who played a concert of little known Renaissance music on the lute, followed later by music for the guitar.

Bacon interspersed remarks on the history of the lute which cast some light on the delicate plucking sounds not unlike the harpsichord in effect.

Different dance rhythms were introduced in the 17 Century French music for guitar, but the audience was most enthusiastic about the two well-loved pieces by Albeniz "Granados" and "Mallorca."

Of great interest was de Falla's only composition for guitar, "Homage to Debussy." Two pieces by Brazilian composer, Hector Villa Lobos, "Prelude" and "Etude," ended the program.

RAYMOND MICHALSKI — Bass-baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, will appear in concert at the Pacific Grove Junior High School Auditorium on Saturday evening, Feb. 1, at 8:15 p.m., under auspices of the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association. This will take the place of the scheduled concert of Robert Weede, which was cancelled because of illness.

YOUNG UCK KIM — the famed young Korean violinist, will appear in Carmel Feb. 15, for the third concert in Carmel Music Society's current series. Kim has soared to top rank of musicianship since his arrival in this country in 1961.

Famed Young Korean Violinist to Play

"A Genius! And I do not use that word lightly."

Thus spoke Leonard Bernstein of the violinist Young Uck Kim, who at age 22 has become a major figure in the music world. He will be presented in concert by the Carmel Music Society on Saturday, Feb. 15 at 8:30 in Sunset Auditorium, an occasion sure to draw a full house.

Young Uck Kim — the Young is in this case a proper noun, not an adjective — was born in Seoul in 1947. He began to study piano at the age of four, switching to violin two years later. He took first prize at the age of eight in a competition that drew aspiring entrants from throughout Korea.

In 1961, he was discovered by Rudolph Serkin who was then travelling through the Orient and heard the young violinist in concert. Serkin was so enthused that he sent tapes of the event back to Curtis Institute in Philadelphia. Young Uck Kim subsequently arrived in the United States to study with the remarkable violin teacher, Ivan Galamiam.

As he progressed, Kim had continual successes. In 1963 he appeared with Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra on television. In 1965 he won the Merriweather Post Competition which led to appearances with the National Symphony in Washington and New York.

But it was Leonard Bernstein's introduction of him as a "young genius" on his CBS television Young People's Concert that served to present Young Uck Kim to the vast national audience, and to trigger requests for appearances from the major orchestras and recital centers of the nation.

For the Carmel concert, violinist Kim has programmed works by Bach, Beethoven and Mozart as well as those of Hindemuth, Wieniawski, Stravinsky and Pergolesi. His accompanist will be Rosalind Frantz Millar, a well known West Coast artist and former resident of this area.

A few tickets are still available at the Carmel Music Society's box office at Friar Tuck Book Store, Mission & 6th (624-7500).

Two Auditions for Gifted Musicians Announced by Chamber Music Society

A cash award of $100 will be given winners in two categories, piano and string performer, by the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society.

Both auditions will be held on Saturday morning and afternoon, Mar. 22, at Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall, time to be announced later.

An opportunity to appear in concert for the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society later in the year will also be given.

In order to qualify, each student:

Shall not be over twenty-five years of age.

Must be resident of Monterey, Santa Cruz, or San Benito Counties.

Must be proficient in performing music of concert caliber (comparable to sonatas or major selections from the Baroque, Classic, Romantic, or Modern Periods)

Should memorize his selection for the audition

Should confine his audition to fifteen minutes unless he has made a previous understanding

Teachers are invited to apply for application blanks and we urge you to encourage talented young students to participate. Further information and application forms can be obtained by telephoning the Rev. H. M. M. Nicholas (624-6533) Mrs. Rosario Mazzeo (624-7014), or Miss Angie Machado (624-4166) — or you may write your enquiries to the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society, P.O. Box 6283, Carmel, California, 93921.

Please feel free to ask any of these members to clarify any questions you may have as to the eligibility of your friends or students.

For Men Only Symphony Talk

About two dozen men attended a "For Men Only" Symphony preview of the concert next Tuesday evening, at a no host lunch at Dutch Motor Lodge on Tuesday.

Haymo Taeuber, symphony conductor, talked about the composers, among them the contemporary Spanish composer, Rodrigo, blind most of his life, whose music will be played by the Spanish harpist, Nicanor Zabaleta.

He played excerpts from next Tuesday's program and explained them.

Astrological Predictions for 1969

By Jewel White

Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Stars

What's New This Year for This World of Ours?

Unknown and vital minerals will be brought back from the moon which will change our present manufacturing of things like automobiles, house siding, etc., and especially our airplanes. I have said this before but now I add that life will be discovered there too.

Long ago I stated that birth-control and marajuana (pot, that is) would become legal in America, before 1970. Sounds incredible, doesn't it? But, so did liquor stores way back in the pro-prohibition thirties.

The Kentucky Derby (pronounced Darby by the "grassy" set) should be won by a son of a former winner there. And, the record should be broken for that distance. As a hint to horse owners, it seems that the winner will be a horse newly paced to that distance. So . . . look thru your string and see which one should be stretched-out to meet this demand.

There will be many earthquakes this year. The most destructive in California should be along the Tahachipi fault. Also a large scale land slide in California will empty a shoreline crest into the sea. It has been predicted that Lumuria should rise again in the Pacific Ocean this year. My findings do not indicate this. Later, yes, when under-water bombings get closer to America. The war in Vietnam should end in August.

Of a longer range nature, by 1975 Northern California and Southern California will divide because of their many differences in "needs," for example water. Did you ever stop to realize that Carmel is, actually, almost on a direct line with Wichita, Kansas, Santa Fe New Mexico, etc. where there is definitely a winter season. Nothing like Los Angeles, San Diego, etc.

And Lo! The bug cometh . . . Daniel Webster tells us that "INFLUENZA" is a word from the Italian, formerly translated from the Latin, "INFLUENTIA", and means a flowing-in. This was attributed by Astrologers to the stars, and so it is to-day. The recent so-called Influenza epidemic, called the Honk Kong Flu, bears this out. As far back as February, 1968, the moon entered the sign of VIRGO, (which most affects the stomach and chest). Perhaps someone returning from Viet Nam, DID carry that bug to our shores. Many seem to think so. However, this bug adores wet and cold weather . . . and, we will have Water, Water, Water, as long as we are in the Aquarian Age. (more about that later). However we can end this item on a cheerful note. I predict that the Hong Kong flu bug that flew in and flipped us, will fly out again by May. I still say that we will find minerals on the moon that can eliminate these disease.

In closing, please remember that the stars impel, but do not compel; and that any book or article is, after all, only one man's opinion.

Let's all try to live by the Golden Rule and that, alone, could change the face of the earth. What we all need is LOVE, LOVE, LOVE, . . . instead of PROMISES, PROMISES, PROMISES. . . .

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS . . . will soon be competing in the annual Bank of America Achievement Awards program, with the added incentive of striving for a new plaque. Comparing the new plaque (at left) with the one she won last year in Teresa Monger. A top winner of $1,000 in last year's finals, she is now a freshman at the University of San Francisco. In addition to 2,500 plaques, the bank will award 7,500 certificates and $108,000 in no-strings-attached cash awards to outstanding high school seniors throughout California this spring. The program honors seniors "whose scholastic attainment, sense of civic responsibility and evidence of leadership give most promise of future success and service to society."

Pelton To Retire At NPGS Jan. 31

Commander Robert L. Pelton, USN, a veteran aviator and helicopter pilot with more than 21 years naval service, will retire in formal ceremonies at the Naval Postgraduate School on Jan. 31.

Serving as comanding officer of enlisted personnel at the Postgraduate School since July 10, 1966, he was relieved of this post in change of command ceremonies on Jan. 15 by Cmdr. Donald T. Fitzgerald, USN.

Cmdr. Pelton will reside with his family at their home at 12th and Mission in Carmel. He plans to open and operate a rock shop, "Peninsula Lapidary" in the near future.

Cmdr. Pelton, flying a Naval Auxiliary Landing Field UH-24 helicopter, rescued an Air National Guard pilot out of the water some 30-35 miles SW of Monterey on Apr. 15, 1968. He has also flown several search and rescue missions along the beaches and south coast highway and successfully rescued a lady hiker in the Big Sur area.

An active citizen in the City of Carmel, Cmdr. Pelton is Scoutmaster for Troop 32 and a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Movie Review

Bedazzled — The New Yorker magazine calls this film the intellectual's "Hellzapoppin," and the zany goings-on bear out the description. Stars Peter Cook, Dudley Moore, Eleanor Bron and Raquel Welch.

Barbarella — Jane Fonda in the year 40,000. A humorous and often biting commentary on sex, politics and life in the distant future.

The Hellfighters — The perils of fighting oil well fires are graphically introduced in this exciting film, a perfect vehicle for John Wayne.

The Subject Was Roses — Patricia Neal returns to the screen in this story of a soldier returning home after the war. Martin Sheen and Jack Albertson are also in the cast.

The Lion in Winter — Peter O'Toole and Katherine Hepburn star in this film version of the play that just left the Circle Theater after a sensational run.

Romeo and Juliet — This version of the classic tragedy is geared to a youthful approach—just where it should be. Juliet was only 14, according to the text. Excellent fare.

The Boston Strangler — Henry Fonda and Tony Curtis in this chiller. The mood is somber, the production realistic and pulls no punches.

Belle de Jour — Excellent exploration of a young wife's psychological problems. Outstanding characterizations by Catherine Deneuve and Genevieve Page.

2001: A Space Odyssey — Far reaches of space explored in this splendid, highly imaginative science-fiction production. Keir Dullea, Gary Lockwood. Wonderful entertainment.

The Stalking Moon — Suspense drama of the frontier. Gregory Peck as a kindly veteran of the frontier who helps Eva Marie Saint, captured by Indians 10 years before the story starts.

Sophisticated Comedy, "Under The Yum Yum Tree," Opens at Studio

When the Lawrence Roman comedy "Under The Yum Yum Tree' opens at the Studio Theatre-Restaurant in Carmel on Friday, Jan. 31, it will bring Brian Jarman back to the local stage in the role of Hogan, the playboy landlord who is always on the make as far as his female tenants are concerned. Jarman was last seen in "A Shot In The Dark" at the Circle Theatre where he also played in "Don Juan In Hell" and in "The Circle."

Before moving here, he was active in radio, television and community theatre in Phoenix and performed for the Weathervane and Coach House Theatres in Akron, Ohio.

Pam Keller takes the part of Robin, the Berkeley student who wants to experiment with a platonic living arrangement before entering into real marriage. New to the Peninsula stage, her previous major credits include "The Country Girl," "Dark At The Top Of The Stairs," "Night Must Fall," "Heartbreak House" and "Everybody Loves Opal."

Rick Poe appears as Dave, Robins reluctant partner in her premarital menage, who naturally tangles with Hogan at first meeting. Poe was seen last fall in "The Star-Spanged Girl" at the Studio, following roles in "Wait Until Dark" and "In White America."

Emma Jane Hansen rounds out the cast as Irene, Robin's youthful aunt whose previous experience with Hogan has left her wary of his charms. She made her local stage debut two years ago in the Studio production of "Janus."

"Under The Yum Yum Tree," directed by Dave Kirk, will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at the Studio through March 15. Reservations for dinner and show or show alone may be made at 624-1 61 or 624-2321.

Bill True Tells Kiwanians Of Peace Corps Aims

The Carmel Kiwanis Club last Thursday heard Bill True, a graduate of Carmel schools and the University of California at Berkeley, and for the past two years a member of the Peace Corps stationed in Peru.

True told of his activities with the farmers in the town of Cusco, 11,000 feet in the Andes, and of the life Peace Corps volunteers lead.

"There were 30 farmers in my particular community effort, and we organized them in such a way that for the first time in their lives they were doing more than just bare subsistence farming, and were showing a profit for their efforts," True said.

He worked mainly with the local Indians, who are completely self - sufficient, since they spin their own clothes from llama or vicuna wool. Their diet is mainly potatoes and corn, but under the U.S. AID program, the quality of the potatoes has been improved, and the diet of the natives gradually bettered.

True lamented the lack of leadership among the Indians of the area in which he was working, but said that progress was being made by U.S. assistance programs, especially through the Peace Corps, to improve the live of the natives of Peru.

MPC To Conduct Income Tax Help

Planning to prepare your own income tax return this year? Then you'll probably need some help.

That's why Monterey Peninsula College is offering, as a community service, a special income tax seminar on six Thursday evenings — Feb. 6, 13, 20 and 27 and March 6 and 13 — 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in MPC lecture-forum 102.

Planned primarily for individuals who will prepare their own tax returns, the seminar will also be of value to representatives of unincorporated business firms, bookkeepers and accountants, since much up-to-date tax information will be covered. Attention will also be focused on the alternatives open to a taxpayer who wants to reduce his tax liability.

Seminar leader will be John Gates, CPA, a retired businessman who has been in both the accounting and investment business on the Peninsula. He has also taught accounting courses for MPC's evening program.

A small registration fee is payable at the college community services office in advance of the first meeting.

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

"Something Simple"

After the surfeit of fancy fare during last week's flurry of entertaining on our Peninsula, let's turn to "something simple."

This needn't mean that the food be dull. Actually it can be simply delicious. For a family supper try bananas bundled in thin ham blankets, baked and served with a cheese sauce. As these are so simply made and easily baked, the usual kitchen fluster when in a hurry can be avoided.

Banana and Ham Rolls

Six thin slices boiled packaged ham; prepared mustard; six firm bananas (use all-yellow or slightly green-tipped bananas).

Spread each slice of ham lightly with mustard. Peel bananas. Wrap a slice of the prepared ham around each banana. Brush their tips with butter. Place these roll-ups in a buttered shallow baking dish and pour the following cheese sauce over them. Bake in 350° F. oven for 30 minutes, or until bananas are tender. Makes 6 servings.

Cheese Sauce

Two T. butter; ¼ cup flour; 1¼ cups milk; 2 cups grated sharp American cheese.

Melt butter in saucepan. Add flour and stir until smooth. Stir in milk slowly and cook until thickened. Fold in cheese, stirring constantly until sauce is smooth. Makes 2 cups sauce.

A quickly cooked vegetable, like green cabbage wedges briefly steamed, and lemon meringue pie bought at the bakery make for an easy but satisfying menu.

Shrimply Delicious

Shell and devein 3 lbs. fresh jumbo shrimp and marinate them in bottled "Real-lemon." Makes 2 cups of smooth white sauce. Chop heads of 4 bunches green onions and saute in one cube butter for 5 minutes then add to white sauce.

Saute drained shrimp in butter for 5 minutes only. Add these to the white sauce. Melt ½ cube of butter in saucepan, add 2 T. flour, let simmer 2 minutes. Add 2 cups dry white wine.

Add this wine sauce to the white sauce, blend and bring just to a boil but do not actually allow to boil. Serve over dry white rice or a combination of wild and white rice if feeling festive. This amount serves four healthy appetites.

The above is the invention of John Elber whose wife Mary was on the Pine Cone staff not long ago. Both young Elbers were raised in Carmel and are active in arts and crafts on Monterey Peninsula.

An easily assembled luncheon dish is this Southern type

Grits Souffle

One cup cooked hominy grits, still hot; 1 stick butter; one 6-oz. garlic cheese roll, melted. Into 1 cup break 2 eggs, stir with fork and fill this cup with milk, then mix with the grits. Bake in buttered casserole at 350° F. until puffy and golden brown. Serves four.

With this serve browned sausage cakes, applesauce and fluffy scrambled eggs with good hot coffee and/or tea.

Sausage-Corn Cakes

One lb. fresh pork sausage; 1 can (16 oz.) whole kernel corn, drained; ¾ cup sifted enriched flour; 1 t. baking powder; 1½ t. salt; 2 eggs; ¼ cup corn liquid or milk; 2 T. delicious drippings from sausage.

Cook sausage in skillet until lightly browned. Pour off drippings and save. Combine sausage and corn. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Beat eggs. Add liquid and eggs to sifted dry ingredients. Stir meat and corn mixture into batter.

Add drippings to pan in which sausage was cooked. Drop sausage mixture by spoonfuls into hot drippings and brown on both sides. Makes 6 servings.

A citrus fruit salad, hot biscuits and a tart jelly with brownies is a short and snappy meal, but really good.

The Grits Souffle was donated especially for Party Plans by Mr. and Mrs. Don Moffatt of Lampasas, Tex. The Moffatts regularly visit Carmel each summer.

The Sausage-Corn Cakes are the inspiration of Reba Staggs, meat expert from Chicago.

And now for some inventions by Carmel residents such as Marion W. Stevens' contribution:

Cucumber Salad

One pkg. lime jello dissolved in ¾ cup hot water; ¼ cup fresh lemon juice; 1 t. onion juice; 1 cup mayonnaise; 1 cup finely diced peeled cucumbers. Mix together and pour into pretty mold, then refrigerate. Serve with fish such as the following:

Scallops With Special Topping

One lb. scallops, fresh or frozen; 1 onion, minced; 1 green pepper finely chopped; 6 stalks celery, thinly sliced; 6 fresh mushrooms, sliced diagonally; 2 T. butter; 1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup; salt, paprika, grated nutmeg and lemon juice to taste; grated Swiss or Parmesan cheese; breadcrumbs.

If scallops are large, cut into smaller pieces. Saute onion, pepper, celery and mushrooms in butter until just tender. Add scallops and cook gently for a moment. Season the canned soup to taste but remember that condensed soups are already salty.

Heat and pour over scallop mixture; mix together gently. Spoon into Pyrex dish, cover with a generous layer of cheese and top with breadcrumbs. Bake in 350 F. oven about 30 minutes or until bubbly and golden. Makes 6 servings.

With the scallops, which are quite rich, although keeping to simple preparation, serve the cucumber molded salad, melba toast and guava jelly . . . coffee and that's all!

This last recipe is my specialty and I was amused to discover that it had been printed in the Sunday supplement of the leading Dallas, Tex. newspaper under the title: "Hot Off The Food Editors' Desk-Stove". Which reminds your Party Plans columnist of a magazine article she once wrote called "I Cook On My Typewriter" . . . but we trust you won't take that too literally!

BankAmericard, the world's largest credit card, more than doubled its cardholders and merchant outlets, and continued to set dramatic sales records during 1968, it was announced by John Dillon, vice president-statewide director BankAmericard.

Sales throughout the nation soared to a new high of $814.5 million, a 77.5% increase from the previous year's total of $458.9 million.

The number of cardholders in the BankAmericard program surpassed 16,750,000, an increase of more than 10¾ million cards during the year and a gain of 179.2%. This growth represents an average increase of more than 895,0000 new cardholders a month, Dillon pointed out.

At year's end, Dillon said, there were 397,000 merchant outlets which would accept the card, up from 155,000 at the end of 1967. The program covers 42 states and 6 foreign countries.

Domestically, 1,864 banks are participating in the BankAmericard program, an increase from 257 banks a year ago. Outside the United States, 1968 saw the establishment of international interchange programs using the same blue, white and gold card designs with banks in Canada (Chargex card), Japan (Sumitomo credit card), and Ireland, Malta, South Africa and Gibraltar (Barclaycard). An interchange program with Barclaycard for use in Great Britain had already been in existence since 1966.

"Last year was by far the greatest growth year in the history of bank credit cards, and especially of BankAmericard," Dillon said. "It is rare indeed that any business service of our size can experience a doubling of its customers and retail outlets, and a more than 75% increase in its sales.

"It is dramatic evidence," he said, "That the so-called 'credit card revolution' has firmly taken hold. Our nation has become extremely credit card-oriented in the relatively short period of two and a half years since the first interstate bank credit card program was launched.

"Credit card banking," Dillon added, "is becoming one of the most important services that a bank can offer its customers."

During 1969, Dillon said, BankAmericard expects to be established in all 50 states and reach agreements in a number of additional foreign countries. Sales this year, he said, should easily surpass the billion dollar mark, and the number of cardholders should reach at least 22 million.

Wells Fargo Bank To Change Name . . . Slightly

Stockholders of Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. approved formation of a holding company Jan. 14 to be known as Wells Fargo & Company, the original name of the famed banking and express firm that began operation in San Francisco in 1852.

The new holding company still owns Wells Fargo Bank. Present bank stockholders will exchange their shares for stock in Wells Fargo & Company on a share-for-share

The original Wells Fargo & Company was organized as a banking and express firm in March, 1852 at New York's plush old Astor House. Founders Henry Wells and William G. Fargo, experienced Eastern expressmen, formed the company to operate in gold - booming California.

A few weeks later the firm opened its first office on Montgomery Street in San Francisco. Within three years, the Company became California's express leader. Wells Fargo offered both banking and express services. When miners wanted to make deposits of gold, the banking house handled the transaction; when they wanted it shipped, the express operation handled it.

The headquarters of the new holding company will be at 420 Montgomery Street, within a few feet of the site of the first office that opened in San Francisco 118 years ago.

Witter Urges Tight Policy

A hard-line fiscal and monetary policy approach to the nation's inflationary spiral has been forecast by Dean Witter & Co.'s Economic Policy Committee.

The committee, composed of the investment firm's top economists and analysts, said that a tough approach is necessary if a sound base for future growth is to be constructed.

"Fiscal and monetary restraints now being applied to the economy are aimed directly at the excesses in consumer expenditures, inventories, wage settlements, capital spending, and stock market speculation," the report said.

"While the correction of these excesses may be painful, the underlying strength of the economy will be reinforced and we believe that a significant part of the negative impact on stock market values has already been discounted," the report continued.

According to the Dean Witter report entitled, "A Positive Investment Policy," such a policy should recognize the degree of correction in the stock market which has already taken place. The investor should look to the resumption of sound growth and seek out reasonably priced, strongly managed, high quality equities.

The Committee, in summary, is predicting the return to the "prudent man" style of investing.

The report said that the success of restraints should result in lower interest rates within the year, which could provide an unusual opportunity for capital gains in fixed income securities.

The group also commented that the combination of the swing to a balanced federal budget, the increase in social security taxes, and the April payments of final 1968 income taxes, which include the surtax, should result in a therapeutic slow-down in economic activity during the first half of 1969.

Despite the outlook for a cooling off period, the Dean Witter report warns that investors should be wary of an excessively pessimistic view of the anticipated business correction. Peace in Vietnam would be bullish. In addition, the new Administration and the Federal Reserve Board have many tools available to counteract an unacceptable degree of economic slowdown.

The report listed a number of stocks with the characteristics of good long-term growth prospects, strong managements, and good financial and marketing strength.

The report also presented a list of available fixed income securities, saying that "the prudent investor has an opportunity, unique in the post-war period, to purchase fixed income securities with the certainty of receiving a high current income and the probability of benefitting from higher bond prices as disinflation proceeds."

Memorandum From Bishop Myers, Episcopal Diocese of California, On Marriage of Bishop Pike

To: All Clergy
Re: The Rt. Rev. James A. Pike
Brethren,

As you know, it is not my custom to discuss the marital matters of persons under my pastoral care as Bishop of the Diocese. I regard these as personal and private in character.

However, the wide publicity accorded the marriage of Bishop Pike in December, 1968, and his own statements to the press, prompt this brief, preliminary message to you so that all of you may understand my role in the matter.

Originally, Bishop Pike made application for permission to remarry, and asked me to give my blessing to the marriage. I declined to grant the application, and advised him of my reasons. He then asked for a declaration of his marital status, and I wrote a letter, dated Dec. 10, 1968, which he interpreted as a "judgment" which left him free to marry.

However, this letter had no relation to his proposed marriage (to Diane Kennedy) and was not intended to be an approval or blessing of that marriage in any way.

I felt it important that the clergy of the diocese fully understand, beyond any possibility of doubt, that it was and is my conviction that I could not bless Bishop Pike's marriage and that I could not officiate at it. This is my position still, whatever the technical basis on which he proceeded.

In light of the problems brought about by the entire situation, I want to take this occasion to personally request that no Rector, Vestry, Vicar or Bishop's Committee invite Bishop Pike to perform any sacerdotal function by preaching, ministering the sacraments or holding any public service in this diocese until further notice from me to the contrary.

Faithfully,
C. Kilmer Myers

Christian Science Bible Lesson

"O continue thy loving-kindness unto them that know thee; and thy righteousness to the upright in heart." These words from Psalms are part of this week's Bible Lesson-Sermon titled "Love."

It will be read in Christian Science churches throughout the world this Sunday.

Also in the lesson-sermon is this related passage from the denominational textbook: "Kindred tastes, motives, and aspirations are necessary to the formation of a happy and permanent companionship. The beautiful in character is also the good, welding indissolubly the links of affection" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy).

Newly-elected officers of the Monterey Bay Chapter, American Institute of Architects met recently to plan the AIA's program for 1969.

The officers are: Sebastian Bordonaro, Carmel, president; Donald Wald, Pacific Grove, vice-president; Raymond Belli, Salinas, secretary; Melvin Blevens, Salinas, treasurer; and Directors Ted Duerr, Gilroy, Fred McNulty, Monterey, and Donald Goodhue, Monterey.

The Chapter's local efforts in recent years have included creation of the highly effective Freeway Advisory Commitee, and its Conservation Committee has taken a watchdog role in studying and advising on Monterey's Urban Renewal program, as well as lending its voice to conservation matters and air pollution controls.

President Bordonaro has set as 1969's goal an even greater involvement of the architectural profession in community affairs, and has set "awareness" as the theme.

MPMA Reactivates Art Education Program With Woodblock Workshop

Mrs. Mary Jane Spence, director-curator of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, is happy to announce the reactivation of the Museum's Art Education Program.

The first of a series of workshops, lectures, and bus tours to be held throughout the year will be a 4-day woodblock workshop to be given the second week in February.

Dick Crispo, well-known local artist and teacher, will be the instructor for the course which is scheduled for Feb. 10, 11, 13 and 14. The classes will be held in the Sunset Center Cafeteria from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. each day.

The first day of the course will include a short history of this ancient technique, plus examples of the use of this media through the ages, and a demonstration by Crispo.

For the first session each student is asked to bring a small sketchbook and drawing pencil. A list of other necessary materials will be given out at that time.

Crispo studied in local schools and took additional art instruction at the Carmel Art Institute and from Victor Di Geso and Sam Colburn. A painter whose work has been included in many area competitions, he became interested in woodblock printing about two years ago, and has, since that time, devoted himself almost exclusively to this media. He serves on the teaching staffs of the Graphic Arts Workshop in Carmel and the new Carmel Valley Art and Craft Workshop.

To insure time for individual instruction, classes will be limited to 15 students, both beginners and advanced. Enrollment for the course will be on a first-come, first-served basis. All reservations must be prepaid, and no one will be considered as registered until his check has been received.

Fee for the series is $15 for members of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Association, and $20 for non-members. Please mail your check to the museum director, Box 4807, Carmel 93921, before the Feb. 3 deadline. For any additional information, please call the museum, 624-2918.

Advance reservations are also being taken at this time for the second in the Workshop Series of courses: a 4-day oil painting workshop to be held during Easter vacation, Mar. 31 through Apr. 3.

Carmel Music Society

On Feb. 15 at 8:30 p.m. the Carmel Music Society will present the Korean violinist, Mr. Young Uck Kim, in a concert at the Sunset Theater.

Mr. Kim was born in Korea in 1947. He began piano studies at the age of four. Two years later he switched to violin. When not quite eight years old he won first prize in an important contest with entrants from all of Korea.

He was discovered by Rudolf Serkin in 1961. Serkin's estimate of the young man's rare talent and magnificent potential was confirmed by the violin faculty at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia, where Kim studied under Ivan Galamian.

In 1965 he won the Merriweather Post Competition which led to appearances with the National Symphony Orchestra in Washington and New York.

Leonard Bernstein's introduction of Kim as a "young genius" on his televised Young People's Concert served to introduce Kim's unique talent to the general public. Since then he has appeared as guest artist in Washington, Philadelphia, Chicago and Los Angeles.

A very few tickets are still available. Phone 624-1109 or write Box 1144, Carmel.

Young People's Concert

The Junior League has cosponsored these concerts for the past 15 years. All organizational and other expenses are paid for by the League.

Two concerts will be given on the 15th. The first at 10 a.m. is reserved for Carmel, Carmel Valley and Pacific Grove children. A repeat performance at 11:30 a.m. is reserved for the balance of the Monterey Peninsula.

The Carmel School District will provide at least one bus for the Carmel Valley children. Time and place of pick-up will be announced next week. Carmel children will not be bussed.

Andrew Erlich, violinist, and Juanita Nesserli, pianist, will appear as guest artists. Both are winners of the annual Young Artist Auditions held each year by the Junior League.

Carmel Plaza Sold For $2 Million

Carmel Plaza, block-long building along Ocean Avenue in Carmel, has been purchased by Consolidated Mortgage Company of Laguna Beach for an estimated $2 million.

The purchase was announced today by Coldwell, Banker & Company, which represented both purchaser and seller in negotiating the sale of the 200-foot by 400-foot structure, which houses such blue chip tenants as I. Magnin, Bank of America, Sambo's Restaurant plus 19 other retail shops.

Frederick I. Richman, president of Consolidated, said the property was purchased as a personal investment.

"Grounded"

Young Artist With A Promise

La Petite Galerie in Carmel Square is now particularly featuring the dry brush watercolors of Ray Swanson.

These paintings are in the American realistic tradition having detail similar to an acrylic. The style strongly shows the influence of Andrew Wyeth and Robert Clark.

Swanson is a young man who has come a long way.

Recently his work has received awards in California shows in San Bernardino, Death Valley, Fontana and San Diego.

The reasonable prices on this work now could make them a sound investment as Swanson comes better known.

Carmel Travelers

(Mr. and Mrs. John G. Bannister of Orinda have had a summer vacation home in Carmel. They are presently on a tour of South America, and their amusing letters will be carried periodically in the Pine Cone.)

As I said last week, our visit to the Canal Zone was extremely interesting, as we watched two large ships go through the locks. It takes almost eight hours for a ship to clear the Canal, as there are three sets of locks, and a ship is raised 85 feet from sea level during its progress through the Canal, and then lowered again to sea level. The average toll for an ocean going commercial ship is about $6,315. A 54 foot Chris-Craft could go through for about $10.

An enterprising Indian lawyer swam through in 1964 and was charged fifty cents toll!

After our return from the Canal Zone, we stayed around the hotel compound until we were taken to the airport for our flight to Lima.

Our group separated temporarily at this point since 14 of us were going to make a side trip to Cuzo, and the other 8 were staying on in Panama to play golf. I was happy to be one of the group leaving Panama, golf or no golf!

As we entered the waiting room there were many soldiers complete with machine guns and a large crowd. Our first thought was that we would again be "detained".

It turned out, however, that the acting Presidente had come to the airport to see one of his henchmen off on a plane.

He passed right in front of us (surrounded by soldiers) as he left the airport, and I must admit he didn't look the least bit ferocious!

Just before this. the Panamanian Ambassador to U.S. from the ousted regime, who was attempting to fly out was captured by the "in" group and taken to jail.

It all sort of reminded me of a James Bond movie, but I must admit, I was darn glad to get on that plane!

Of course, we did have the uncomfortable thought that we might be going from the frying pan into the fire since Lima has only just completed a coup within the last week! However, in Lima, aside from soldiers all around and tanks parked in the President's front yard, nothing untoward has occurred.

As if we hadn't had enough excitement already, when we boarded the plane, we discovered DeWitt Tichenor had lost his and his wife's passports! He had already been back to look for them and had alerted the officials in the airport, but they had not been found, and the plane had to take off. The Tichenors were abroad, but without passports, and we were flying into another country! We all felt as if we were sitting on a powder keg, not knowing what would happen on arrival in Lima. Suddenly, the steward came back to DeWitt with the announcement that the passports had been found and turned in, and would be sent on the next plane to Lima, which, fortunately, was only about 7 hours later! I'm surprised you didn't hear the sigh of relief from all of us clear up in California! Of course, the Tichenors were "detained" at the airport, not exactly in handcuffs, but behind closed doors until the plane arrived with the missing passports. They finally reached the hotel at 3 A.M., and we were leaving at 6:30 A.M. for the airport to fly to Cuzco. We really felt hte Tichenors shouldn't have been charged for a full night's lodging!

Reviews for Young Readers

By Allene Fremier

Rosie's Walk, by Pat Hutchins is for those who want a minimum of text and a maximum of amusement. Rosie the hen went for a walk. As she strolls along oblivious of any danger, a sly fox is following her. One thing after another happens to the fox as he tries to catch Rosie and Rosie is never even aware that he is there.

Rosie reutrns home in time for dinner and we see the fox running away with swarms of bees after him.

The illustrations are amusing and colorful and beginning listeners will especially love it.

Racey Helps has another delightful story called Prickly Pie.

It is the story of Pinny Needlekin who didn't like going to Dame Bunnybrown's school, because he didn't know his ABC's, and also because the other children didn't want to play with him because his prickles hurt them. Instead of paying attention, he dreamed of black beetles in honey, for hedgehogs would rather eat them than anything else.

One day he decided not to go to school. He goes to the woods and meets a gentleman who tells him he will help him to remove his prickles. He tied Pinny's hands and feet and rolled him in clay. Fortunately for Pinny, Nubby Tope, the mole, found some worms in the clay and began to nibble at them and discovered Pinny, who was about to be baked in a Prickly Pie.

So Pinny went back to school, wearing oak apples stuck all over his prickles.

For the science fiction fans, Lester del Ray's new book is Prisoners of Space. It is the story of the first two children to be born on the moon, and of their desire to visit earth.

The other starring member of the story is "Fuzzy", a spherical and affectionate creature who was discovered by Dave in an abandoned mining tunnel near the space station.

The adventures of the 17-year-old Dave Hermon, his companion Jane Larkin and "Fuzzy," take them to unexplored subterranean tunnels below the moon surface.

VISITING PROFESSOR — Ansel Adams, left, world famous photographer and Carmel resident, says goodbye to Occidental College President Richard C. Gilman at the conclusion of Adams' three-day visit to the college. Adams, appearing as a conservationist, told Occidental students that the population curve is no longer a curve, but a nearly vertical leap upwards, and that it will soon leave some U.S. wilderness areas like the John Muir Trail in the Sierra Nevada ". . . a series of muddy paths cluttered with tin cans, cigarette butts and candy wrappers." He urged that conservation become a dominant theme in all the expressive arts, in literature, photography and painting.

J.C. Business Students Compete

Top business students at area junior colleges are now being selected to receive Bank of America's 1969 Junior College Business Awards.

Two students at each school, one in business administration and another in secretarial science, will receive cash awards of $300 each plus a framed certificate of merit.

The names of the winning students will be announced in February. They will receive their awards at a banquet March 13 at the Hilton Hotel in San Francisco.

The winners are selected by members of the school faculty on the basis of their scholarship and extracurricular activities relating to their chosen fields.

Other qualities considered include a personality appropriate to the student's occupational choice, and an ability to get along well with others.

This year 43 junior colleges throughout Northern California are taking part in the annual program, two more than last year.

Now in its 17th year, the Bank of America program has a threefold purpose: to recognize the opportunities existing in the business world; to emphasize the importance of the business curriclum; and to encourage consideration of business as a career.

Padres Trounce Hollister, Stay Undefeated In MTAL Play

By Hal Gann

Firmly entrenched in first place, Carmel High's varsity basketball team made it seven victories with no defeats in the MTAL, blasting Hollister, 70-52, Friday evening on the Haybaler Hardwood.

It was a fine team effort for Jason Harbert's charges, as the Balers are always tough in their antiquated bailiwick, and the 18-point margin is like a 32-point spread had the game been played in Padre territory.

Against Hollister, six-foot-five-inch Center Bruce Winkler once again dominated scoring — with 26, and the backboards — with 14 rebounds, to receive the Most Valuable Player Award for the game, a new presentation originated by Roberts Steinmetz, Carmel Valley Pharmacist, who is one of the broadcast sponsors.

All around court hustle and fine defensive play was exhibited by guard Ross Smith, who tallied 12 points. Forward Chris Laiolo got his share of rebounds, and had the largest amount of assists, with seven, while scoring eight markers.

It was a great night for Carmel's half-court press with Winkler, Smith, and guard Mark Spindler intercepting several enemy passes and dribbles. Spindler, noted for his efficient drives for the hoop, registered 13. Junior forward Steve Taylor was reasonably hot from the outside with six.

"We just didn't have enough height to do it," commented Baler Mentor Bob Matson after the game. His tallest performer is center Dave Ottmar, a little over 6-2, who hit for 10. Sharpshooting guard Phil Yuste collected 19 for Hollister.

Now halfway through the scramble for the pennant, the Padres are comfortably nestled in first place, at least two games in front of King City and Palma, last years champs, and the only undefeated team in league play, on the Peninsula, and in the MTAL.

"The second half is going to be really rough", frowns Harbert. "We have to play Palma on their floor, and King City down there. Both are going to be gunning for us."

In notching their seven league victories, the Padres have amassed 481 points to the opposition's 379, the average game being Carmel, 68.7, and 54 points per game for the opponents, a spread of better than 14 points per game.

Carmel's Junior Varsity for the third time this season lost another close one, 56-53, as the Hayseeds flashed superior rebounding with 6-5 sophomore Eric Boyd, who if he irons out the awkwardness could be a fine asset to the spark the Hollister varsity the next two seasons.

Boyd was highpoint man with 15, and Carmel's Jim Conlan paced the local JV entry with 14, Kevin Cunningham collected ten and Jeff Canepa had 9.

Carmel coach Dick Charles likes to play 11 or 12 performers each game, and just about everyone on the JV squad saw action.

The Carmel Lightweights also lost to Hollister, 41-36.

Next Carmel High Sportcast is Friday evening, Jan. 31, over KRSA-FM, 100.7 Mc., when arch-rival Pacific Grove invades Padre domain. The broadcast, in addition to covering the varsity game, will start early . . . at 7:15 . . . to include the last half of the JV tilt.

Christian Science Radio Program

Next Sunday's program in the Christian Science radio series "The Bible Speaks to You" is titled "Overcoming Fear of Accidents." It will be broadcast over station KGO at 7:15, KRML at 7:45 and KDON at 8:45. This program points out that fear can prevent the decisive and intelligent action necessary to insure safety. But by realizing that God's love is always sufficient to hold man in perfect harmony and safety, he can learn to obey Jesus' command "Fear not."

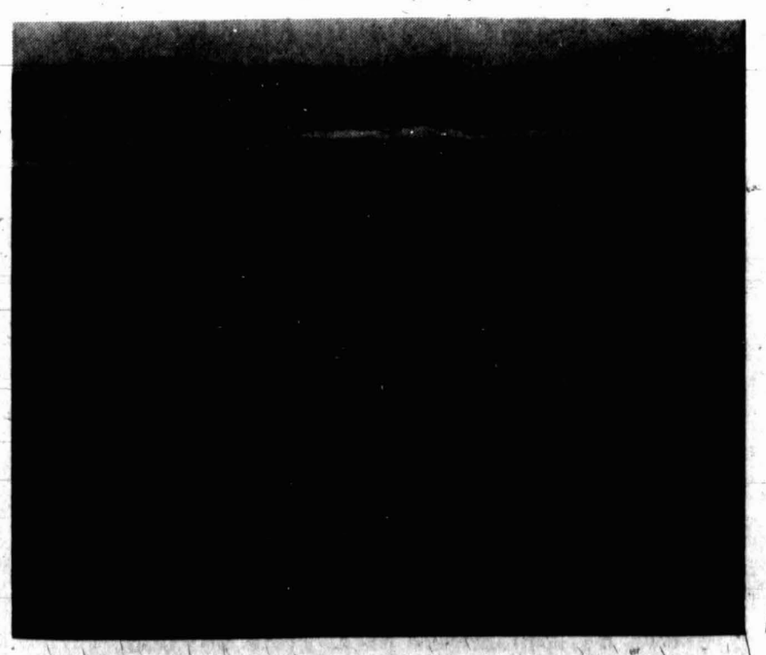
HOT BREATH — Dale Johnson, center, in hat and dark sweater, dogged Archer's footsteps all the final round, but just couldn't make up the one stroke deficit before he ran out of holes to do it.

SHADOWS — There were a few moments, off and on, when the sun really did look down to see how the Crosby was doing. Caddies and golfers cast long shadows on the green as the tournament came down to the final holes at Pebble Beach.

MOUTH OF THE RIVER — A normally docile and tractable Carmel River turned into a rampaging monster under the steady, lashing rains. As it entered the Pacific Ocean, it was a rolling, smashing, debris-laden current nearly a half a mile wide that stained the sea for a mile beyond the shore.



PILED DEEP — Thousands of cords of firewood in the form of uprooted trees and lumber torn from demolished structures in the valley washed up on Carmel Beach.

MDTA Auto School Needs Old Cars

The MDTA automotive school in Seaside, a federally-funded project administered by Monterey Peninsula College, needs old cars, but not "clunks ready for the junkyard," Elwood Deras, an instructor at the school, said.

"What we need is running, licensable cars in need of a little repair — cars that the students can fix up quickly and use for transportation to and from school. If someone has a car like that, that he wants to give to a good cause, he could save himself from having to pay a 1969 license fee on it. The student will buy the license. And we'll come and pick up the car."

Deras explained that somehow an erroneous plea was issued asking for old cars in any condition — cars which would serve as practice material for students studying automotive repair. The report resulted in gifts of seven "complete wrecks," only two of which were of any use for educational material, "If we take out the engine and haul away the body."

Persons wishing to donate "running, licensable" cars may reach Deras at 394-8181.

Tourangeau To Speak

"Divorce and the Law" will be discussed by Richard Tourangeau, Carmel attorney, at the seminar of the Parents Without Partners lecture series on divorce on Wednesday, Feb. 5, at the Pacific Grove Community Center, 515 Junipero.

Mr. Tourangeau will speak on legal matters pertaining to divorce to enable the audience better to understand courtroom procedures and help in accepting divorce with less trauma and bitterness.

A question and answer period will be included in the lecture series program "Focus on Divorce".

The SOS series is sponsored by the Monterey Chapter of Parents Without Partners as a public service to assist persons undergoing or contemplating divorce and to give married couples who wish to get a better insight a more objective understanding of marriage.

Liquor Law in Pacific Grove

qualification, even if they should want to do so.

This, however, leaves one part of the question regarding the general-election vote of last November in Pacific Grove still untouched. This is the idea of placing any strictly municipal issue on a general-election ballot at all, and this, in turn — apropos of the Pacific Grove case — leads one to ask if any kind of advisory question should be placed, or even can legally be placed, on any election ballot, when there is no specific state law providing for it.

When two attorneys, widely experienced in local government, were asked about the legality of putting an advisory question, on a general-election ballot, they said they doubted whether such a question could legally be placed on any election ballot at all. They said that ballot propositions generally would have to be limited to those for which provision is made in state law — such as referendum, initiative, and recall.

Apart from any question of legality, however, the overriding question could very well have been whether or not the city council of any city with the long-established special character of Pacific Grove should have even been willing to expose its unique place in the sun to serious challenge at a general election where many go to express preferencs on national and state matters and often only quite incidentally on any local matter which might happen to be on the same ballot.

Certainly it would have seemed to someone looking in from the outside, that such a matter as the Pacific Grove advisory question on last November's general-election ballot, could very well, and quite properly, have been saved for this year's city-election ballot. Such a course could have saved Pacific Grove the agony through which many of its dedicated citizens are now passing, and possibly Pacific Grove's own unique character in the state and in the country.

Sunset Plans —

aroused mixed feelings and considerable opposition in the community.

A key proposal under the Pruitt plan is the giving of a prominent location to what is called a "Museum of Carmel - by - the - Sea History"' This museum idea was first advanced, and initially put into tentative operation by the Arts Commission, a predecessor of the present Cultural Commission.

Following discussion, the Pruitt plan was approved as a "preliminary plan" and forwarded to the City Council.

Miller Visits Lions

Dr. Milton Miller of San Jose, district governor of the Lion's Club, was distinguished guest of the Carmel Lion's Club at its regular Tuesday evening meeting at the Carmel Mission Ranch.

Dr. Miller is governor of a district that encompasses Santa Clara, San Benito, Santa Cruz and Monterey Counties containing a total of 50 Lion Clubs.

Miller delineated the spirit of Lionism and its resulting contributions, the numerous forms the spirit takes, and how the local communities are served by local Lion Clubs.

Secretary Job Open

Monterey Peninsula College is currently receiving applications for the position of secretary to the president/superintendent and the board of trustees.

Starting salary is $562 a month. Applications will be taken until Feb. 3 by Dr. John Baron, MPC business manager, with the position to start approximately Feb. 15.

Thinking of selling your home?

If you are planning to sell a house in the Carmel area in the next few years the time is now right. Due to the lack of new home building over the past several years there is a relative scarcity of good houses for sale now, so we are presently in a "seller's market" with a steady demand from newcomers to the area. High interest rates are not an especial deterrent and in fact may be an advantage to you if you want to carry a first deed of trust, but this is optional.

We will be glad to discuss your property with you and advise you to the best of our ability concerning its current value with no obligation whatsoever on your part.

SOMETHING NEW
UNDER THE SUN

The Air-Conditioned Hairpiece

Businessman Allan Swenson plays tennis in Basking Ridge, N. J., wearing undetectable hairpiece, plastic cast assured perfect fit.

MILLBRAE, California – Something new will be worn under the sun this year by thousands of men who want to "play it cool" – an air conditioned hairpiece.

"Besides offering bald men a cooler summer, the hairpieces make them look years younger," reports former U.S. Senator Glen H. Taylor, who twice campaigned for a Senate seat as a bald man. It took a third effort – and a hairpiece he created – to win election.

The customized Taylor Topper rides on a cushion of air 1/32 of an inch above the wearer's head, resting on four small pedestals.

Secret of the hairpiece is its construction. First, a plaster cast is made of the wearer's head and small samples of the client's hair are taken.

The cast is used to make a thermoplastic base that will precisely fit the contour of the client's head. Then hairs, matched against the samples for color and texture, are inserted in the soft, scalp-like plastic base by hand and rooted under tons of pressure.

Numerous ventilation pores in the base enable fresh air to circulate freely, keeping the wearer's scalp cool and dry.

Noting that 100,000 men purchased hairpieces last year, Taylor, founder of Taylor Topper of California, predicted that sales will double this year and exceed the $20 million of 1967 "as more men realize the value of a youthful appearance in today's business world."

Though the air conditioned hairpiece will play a significant role in the industry's growth, Taylor credits wives with being a key sales factor.

"After all," he noted, "how many wives really prefer bald husbands?"
